

National Apartment Council

The united national voice of Canada's private apartment developers

Why We Exist

It's time for private apartment developers to have a voice in Canada and help the government make better informed decisions. Canada's housing affordability crisis is deepening, threatening social stability and public trust. Private developers have built ~90% of Canada's apartments, yet government seeks advice elsewhere. Without a strong national voice, taxes, regulations, inconsistent financial programs, and rent policies will continue to make projects unfeasible.

What We've Done Already

- Raised over $900,000 in our first two months.
- Secured commitments from leading developers nationwide.
- Launched NationalApartmentCouncil.ca
- Engaged GT & Company as our government relations firm.
- Secured the attention and already met with the Ministry of Finance.

Our Mission

As the national voice of private apartment developers, the National Apartment Council:

- Ensures developers have a seat at the federal table where housing policy is made.
- Builds public recognition that rental supply is central to solving Canada's housing crisis.
- Help our government make good decisions by providing credible, practical solutions to accelerate apartment construction.
- Unites the industry to speak with one coordinated, influential voice.
